HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. E. COOPER

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.
He respectfully refers to the following

CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. R. Hoogland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongue to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw and is therefore easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

(DISPATCHES TO THE [illegible])

EASTERN DATES TO MARCH 4

Suicide

MEMPHIS, Ten. March 3.—[illegible] Henry [illegible], for many years an engineer on the Memphis and Charleston Railroad, a sober industrious man, being told that his wife was [illegible], walked out of the door and shot himself with a pistol in the head and blew his brains out.

New York Central Railroad

ALBANY, March 3.—The New York Central Railroad is preparing to issue a scrip dividend of eighty per cent on its capital stock. Having failed to make returns to the revenue office the company was to-day assessed by the U. S. Assessor for five per cent on this dividend. The tax amounts to $1,152,000.

Cuban Affairs

NEW YORK, March 3.—A Havana letter gives the details of the arrest and execution by the Spanish, of alleged members of the Cuban Junta at Santiago. The arrests numbered forty to fifty and eighteen were executed, including two Americans. The victims were arrayed before the Commission and condemned, and then admitted the existence of the association to which they belong, but they denied its being a political junta, and said it was only a Masonic Lodge, and that they met as Masons for Masonic purposes. This defence appeared to have angered instead of satisfied the Spaniards. A Catalonian priest, who has been noted for the ultraism of his loyalty and for his violent denunciations of the Cubans pronounced Free Masons no better than insurgents. He said that the rising of the Yarra was plotted and planned in a Masonic lodge and that Cespedes is a Mason, and wherever Masons congregate there Spanish loyalty dies. The American Consul Phillips, ably seconded by Ramsden, the British Consul, endeavored hard to save the lives of his two countrymen but was unsuccessful. The volunteers insisted upon their life blood being shed as well as that of their Cuban associates, and thwarted all appeals intended to prevail upon the Government of the District to spare them. The two Americans were Free Masons and one of the Cubans was Senor Andres Lapuerta of the Grand Orient of Masons of the island. Phillips reports that the remaining prisoners are to be executed but the statement from other sources are that, the Lieutenant Governor is opposed to any man's execution, and has written for instructions. The volunteers, headed by Col. Boet, were furious at the delay, and clamored loudly for the execution of all the arrested parties, and the event may have happened already, since it is likely that the Lieut.-Governor had to succumb to their demand. Some Americans are also included in this lot, and Phillips has asked the American Government for a man of war. The British Consul has also written to his Government that a British war vessel should be kept constantly at his disposal. On the 12th, a British subject, Frederick Jordon, was murdered by the Spanish volunteers. The murderer was arrested. This act is said to have been done from other motives than political.

The Emperor replied: "It is agreeable to see you here for your present. [illegible] pacific relations which unite Russia and China [illegible] the negotiations which you are about to enter upon will draw them closer. From Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 4.—Last night near La Puerto Ranch 15 miles from this city a bold attempt was made to assassinate C. A. Taylor, a squatter on the land in dispute. He was called to the door and fired at. The ball passed through the left hand. It is thought the would-be assassin will be caught.

The city taxes for the month are $3,[illegible] amount received from license $209. Two new members of the City Council took their seats last night. A disposition to exercise rigid economy is manifesting itself. The proposed correction of street lines promises a rich harvest for lawyers.

NEVADA

VIRGINIA, Nev., Feb. 4.—Last evening the white laborers at Empire City employed at the mills and by the railroad company drove off the Chinese laborers employed by the railroad company. To-day all the men engaged in the affair were discharged. One of the ring leaders was arrested and placed in jail at Carson. The sheriff of Ormsby county left Carson to-night for Empire City with a posse of twelve men and will protect the Chinamen, who have all returned to work. No further trouble is anticipated.

The New York Herald says that the number of professional women of all fame in that city is estimated at ten thousand. Three eighths are born in the United States. New York furnishes the most, then Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Maine, Connecticut. The Eastern States furnish the most, the Middle States the next largest number, then the Southern States, and last the Western States. Five-eighths are born abroad; of these Ireland furnishes more than one half, Germany about one sixth, England one twelfth, British North America one twentieth. In large numbers these fallen girls begin their career of shame almost immediately upon entering the United States. Up to the [illegible] of January the different institutions for the reclamation of fallen women had [illegible] 1,113 unfortunates. The police are now busily engaged in [illegible] statistics relative to the [illegible] by order of Superintendent Kennedy.

Now [illegible] the Federal Government has the [illegible] [illegible] but it is its imperative duty to make such legal provision as will ensure and assure the purity of the ballot in the election of Federal functionaries and representatives. The New York Tribune trusts therefore that Congress will give careful attention to the bill for the prevention and punishment of election frauds which has been agreed upon by the House Committee on Elections and which we have published in the Tribune. If in some parts of the country it be next to impossible to secure honesty in the management of State and municipal elections there can be no reason why with a Republican Congress and Executive there should be any insuperable difficulty about enforcing decency and honesty in our Federal elections.

Legal Tender. The Supreme Court Decision

From the N. Y. Times

[illegible] the majority of the [illegible] strikes a direct hostility to the [illegible] of that great series of acts and measures which were required to destroy the rebellion. Singularly enough it is the decision of an unfriendly Court of a State which stood on the brink of disloyalty which has been affirmed and in effect the numerous decisions made in support of the act throughout the North are reversed.

[illegible] present Chief Justice who [illegible] was not the author of the measure which he now aids to destroy. He was as Secretary of the Treasury was the strenuous advocate of its passage without whose powerful cooperation it could not have become a law. Mr. Spaulding, who was chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the author of the bill, expressed to Mr. Seward the embarrassment he felt from the want of support on the part of Mr. Chase, and the latter after stating in a letter to Mr. Spaulding, that he came to it reluctantly, declared that he had done so firmly and thoroughly. From an examination of the Congressional report for February, 1862, it will appear that it was owing to the urgency of Mr. Chase in the form of letters that the bill was suddenly taken from the Committee on Ways and Means and ordered to a vote, after a two-hours discussion. "It is very important," he wrote, "that the bill should go through today and through the Senate this week." The situation of the Treasury required this extraordinary haste. The measure became a law at his solicitation, he put it into immediate execution, and requested, at a later period, that the amount of legal-tender [illegible] should be increased. It was through his direct instrumentality that issues were authorized of denominations under five dollars. It was Mr. Chase who did more than any other to flood the country with them, [illegible] his own effigy; and [illegible] he decides that [illegible] did under the solemnity of [illegible] was unconstitutional and void.

The grave circumstances of that extraordinary time can scarcely be forgotten. The State banks on the 31st of December, 1861, had very generally suspended specie payments. At a meeting of their principal managers in New York, it was announced to Mr. Chase, on the part of Mr. Gallatin, that they could take no more of the bonds of the United States; that they were only agents for placing public loans, and that what they had on hand could not be disposed of, as there were no takers, either here or abroad. The attitude of foreign countries at the time was generally not of a friendly character, and the issue presented to our Government was, whether, as the public funds were wholly exhausted and the associated banks had declared their inability to furnish additional funds, we should resort to the policy of a forced circulation or abandon the war. The letters of Mr. Chase clearly show that we had reached this point in the struggle, and it would appear from his present views that with [illegible] had no other duty but [illegible]. If his views had then prevailed, the rebellion would have been successful, probably to the extent of imposing its own authority over the whole Union.

The argument in favor of the constitutionality of the legal-tender act lies, as it were, in a nut shell. The power to conduct war carries with it the right to employ all necessary and proper means for achieving success. The policy of Great Britain in making the bills of the Bank of England in effect a legal tender during the wars with Napoleon was resorted to from dire necessity. The precious metals were being exported to the Continent, partly through the instrumentality of emissaries of Napoleon and that proud and opulent nation was compelled to set the example which we followed. It may be assumed that no nation which has permitted an extensive resort to paper money during peace can conduct a war of great magnitude on the basis of the precious metals. Such has been our situation as to preceding issues of paper; and inasmuch as the war power reaches to the height of the emergency there was no escape from the measure which Mr. Chase supported. This policy being a means to the end, and Congress, which is the judge of the fact having pronounced it to be "necessary and proper," it clearly became lawful, because not prohibited by the Constitution.

In bestowing the power to raise and support armies, the means are not enumerated, and in raising the means the situation must be regarded. Mr. Chase, as Secretary of the Treasury was the best judge at the time; he urged that the legal-tender measure was necessary and proper and he induced Congress to unite in declaring this fact. The sole question which the Court had to consider, in view of the pressure of uniform decisions made from the origin of the Government, was therefore this, whether the measure was reasonably conducive to the end in view, and was unprohibited. There is no pretence that it was prohibited and it is clear from the experience of England and of this country that as a means it is efficacious. What would be the situation if we were obliged to-day to conduct a new war with this decision staring us in the face?

From the decision pronounced in February 1860 it would appear that as to recent contracts made payable in coin, judgment will be enforced specifically in coin, and that when made in dollars generally without specifying the kind of currency judgment will be entered for dollars without distinction. Although the latter point did not arise in the case, what fell from the Court will no doubt generally be adopted. The contracts made prior to the act of February 1862 now held to be payable in gold are numerous but their enforcement will be subject to the doubt which prevails as to the future construction of the Court. We repeat, therefore that no duty is more imperative upon the body which advises and consents to appointments, than to be certain that this necessary power in war shall be restored to the Government and that the Court shall be constructed on a plan which instead of being harmonious with Kentucky shall discourage personal ambition and be in strict harmony with the loyalty of the [illegible].

Railways and Party Politics

the Herald comes out directly and ly against the Portland Astoria and ville Railroad bill. Its articles is inspired by political or rather by considerations and in its clumsy the subject it cannot disguise the fact would be glad to see the measure f if possible the railroad controversy kept open in the hope that its party thereby gain some advantage. It would the State deprived of this grant and lose benefits that would accrue from it if y a little party capital could be made t paper attempts to cloak its real design a pretended approval of Smith's scheme for a grant of land on the west xtending south from Portland a dis of two hundred miles. We say this e is visionary because in the first place body who knows anything about Oregon s that the grant would embrace very lit nd, and because in the next place no list would advance money on a grant which a legal controversy would at once Such a grant would therefore be of no whatever as a means of building a road much money, does any one suppose, be raised on the faith of a land grant n, in the first place, would carry with it land of value, and which in the next , would involve the parties in litigation e they could take the first step toward ng it available? We hope the west side not be doomed to wait for such a chimer nd doubtful project to succeed, before gains a railroad.

the value of the grant in the shape in h it has passed the Senate, and of the y which it will progress as a basis of it for building a road, not only to connect land and Astoria but also through the side counties to the head of the valley, have heretofore repeatedly spoken. These ntages are known and universally ac wledged. As this bill has passed the ate against Democratic opposition by the rts of Senator Williams, let Congressman th fail, if he dares, in his duty toward it he House. He probably will oppose it, the wonder of his political friends in Senate, and no doubt this bill of his is oduced as a covert attack upon the only sure that is of practical utility for the t side. But it will pass in spite of him in spite of the general opposition of the ocratic party, as represented in Congress, grants of land

There is a chorus of censure in all the ocratic papers against Senator Williams the Republican party because of the tence of the controversy between the t and west side roads. Now, if there any blame in the matter and if any party liable for it, that party is the Democratic. he land grant has been unsettled and di ed from the company which had the or al right to it, the last Legislature is re nsible for the act. That Legislature was ngly Democratic in both branches. The no-rity majority was large enough to do atever it chose. There are Democrats o go about declaring that the west side Land "robbed" of its land grant, hoping make party capital out of the charge; but y omit to state that the late Democratic gislature was chief actor in the measure ich they now denominate as "robbery." any wrong has been committed against the st side; if any right belonging to the west e has been divided or violated let the ponsibility thereof rest upon the late mocratic Legislature, where it primarily ongs. Are not Democratic politicians king a pretty figure in going before Re blicans and urging them to vote for Demo ts in order that they may thereby right an eged wrong, perpetrated, (if a wrong) by a mocratic Legislature?

But it, in the Herald thus evident in ard to the party phases under which it uld make this subject appear, but it shows t it is sadly wanting in knowledge of the ography of the State, even within a circuit fifty miles of Portland. For instance, it s "It will take very sharp optics to per ve how Portland is to be benefitted by a lroad that goes southward nearly to the th line of Washington county, and thence rthwestward to Astoria." We answer that writer on a public journal, if he expects to ve the public intelligently, ought to know mething of the geography of the country mediately surrounding him. A railroad m Portland to Astoria will not "go south ard nearly to the south line of Washington unty." It will not "go southward" at all orest Grove lies on the base line, due west Portland, and the road projected to Mc innville which, as far as Forest Grove will identical with the Astoria road, will not o southward" a single furlong till it passes orest Grove. In the immediate vicinity of at point, the junction will be established e Wallamet valley road taking a southerly, d the Astoria road a northwesterly, direc on. The proposed railway line from Port nd to Astoria is thus very nearly a direct e, and is shorter than the route by the allamet and Columbia rivers. So much r the circuitous railroad route which the erald's map maker has laid down

Still another objection is urged in the Her d's article. That objection is based, pre ndedly, on the view that the construction the proposed railway to Astoria would be j urious and perhaps even fatal to Portland uch view is based on very narrow ideas and Portland is to be governed by such ideas she ay as well give up all her anticipations of rapid owth and future greatness. By taking the ad in railway movements and laying out her ans to accord with the expansive growth d future demands of the surrounding coun y she will make herself a railroad center d be able to command the situation for all me. But if she holds back from one enter ise and another afraid to allow a railroad be built to connect her with any other int, lest she may thereby lose her pre-emi ence, she will let her opportunity pass for er. A railway from Astoria to Portland stead of being an injury would be a pow ful aid to this city. As an auxiliary of the mmerce of Portland its influence would be calculable. Connecting with other railways rminating here, it would help to make Port nd a central point and build it up just as stems of converging railways have built up umberless cities throughout our country we not want a quicker way of reaching e mouth of the Columbia river than by the ow progress of steamboats? And in view the prospective demands of travel and mmerce is not such quicker method going be a positive necessity? Portland can be pt back by beating off such enterprises as is, and can never be injured but can be ilt up beyond all computation, by encour ing them

Mr Smith's bill which the Herald for purely party reasons so strongly commends is gotten up solely as a partisan dodge and will be forgotten as soon as its author's term is over and the purpose which inspired it is at an end. Indeed we doubt strongly whether it will ever be heard of again in Congress. Its merits are nothing as compared with the Portland Astoria and West Side bill. If passed it would convey no land unless Congress would give the company the privilege of going to distant parts of the State for it and this Congress will never do. The plain truth is that the exigencies of party politics require the Herald to take this hostile position against a land grant of very great importance to the State and that paper is therefore in the very same category with the members of its party in the Senate who unitedly opposed it

Striking Contrasts

The Philadelphia Press notes that we do things very differently after all in this country from the custom of other countries and the Democrats and rebels and wrong doers generally ought to be thankful therefor instead of continually abusing it as is their wont

When poor Salnave was caught and tried and shot all in an afternoon, he pleaded the case of Jefferson Davis but without effect. After pleading a very unmanly precedent it is to be said for the credit of Salnave that he met his fate like a man. His name will not go down to history in petticoats

And now comes the news that a measure will soon be carried through Congress to restore to General Lee a portion of his property captured at Arlington the same which Andrew Johnson, when leaving the White House ineffectually attempted to turn over. To point the contrast the telegrams from Paris report the rumor that a motion will be made in the Corps Legislatif to restore the Orleans property taken by the government in 1848. Napoleon objects, however and the prospects of success are slim

Handsomely Caught

The Democrats in the National House of Representatives were handsomely caught the other day. A Republican member, during a discussion on the tariff question, offered a resolution in favor of a "tariff for revenue on foreign imports, and such equal taxation under the internal revenue laws as will afford incidental protection to domestic manufactures, and as will, without impairing the revenue, impose the least burden upon and best promote and encourage the great industrial interests of the country." This resolution did not please the Democratic members. There was too much of the "iniquity of protection" in it. Therefore they nearly all voted against it. But the joke of the whole thing is that the resolution was copied verbatim from the National Democratic platform on which Mr Seymour was nominated for President! The Democrats in Congress went right back on the "time-honored and unchangeable principles," and declared by their votes that they did not mean what they said when they constructed the platform on which they fought the last national contest

The Lenten Fast.

The present is the season of Lent and the following article on the Lenten Fast, contributed by a pen in this city, will no doubt be interesting to very many of our readers:

A Fast before Easter has been observed from the earliest Christian times, but the period of its duration varied in different countries and ages down to the seventh century. According to Irenæus, Bishop of Lyons in France, in a letter to Victor, Bishop of Rome, about the end of the second century, in which he discusses the varying rules about Easter—"Some think they are to fast one day, some two, and some more, and some forty days." Tertullian, a few years later, speaks of the practice of the Church as believed with certainty to be founded on that passage of the Gospel in which those days were appointed for fasting, during which the Bridegroom was taken away. This has been thought by some to point to the period of forty days, during which our Lord was going through His Temptation in the wilderness, but it is far more probable that it refers to the time forty hours—during which His Soul was separated from His Body. Some few years later still, towards the middle of the third century, Origen speaks of forty days being consecrated to fasting before Easter. And at the Council of Nice, A D 325, this period was taken for granted, as if long in use. The primary object of the institution of a fast before Easter was doubtless that of perpetuating in the hearts of every generation of Christians the sorrow and mourning which the Apostles and Disciples felt during the time that the Bridegroom was taken away from them. This sorrow had, indeed, been turned into joy by the Resurrection, yet no Easter joys could ever erase from the mind of the Church the memory of those awful forty hours of blank desolation which followed the last sufferings of her Lord and she lives over year by year the time from the morning of Good Friday to the morning of Easter Day by a representation of Christ evidently set forth crucified among us. This probably was the earliest idea of a fast before Easter. But it almost necessarily followed that sorrow concerning the death of Christ should be accompanied by sorrow concerning the cause of that death and hence the Lenten Fast became a period of self discipline, and was so probably from its earliest institution in Apostolic times. And according to the literal habit which the early Church had of looking up to the pattern of her Divine Master the forty days of His fasting in the Wilderness while He was undergoing temptation became the gauge of the Servants Lent deriving still more force as an example from the typical prophecy of it which was so evident in the case of Moses and Elijah. St Chrysostom Bishop of Constantinople A D 397, speaks of great strictness in fasting on the part of many in his day such as is still found in the Eastern Church. He also speaks in one of his homilies of men being purified in the days of Lent by prayer and alms deeds by fasting watching tears and confession of sins, showing that the severe Lents of later ages were only such as had been observed in the time of that great Father of the Church

The general mode of fasting seems to have been to abstain from food until after six o clock in the afternoon and even then not to partake of animal food or wine. Yet it may well be doubted whether such a mode of life could have been continued day after day for six weeks by those whose duties called upon them for much physical exertion. And it seems more than probable that the strict rules mentioned by the Fathers were rules for Ecclesiastics rather than for ordinary Christian people. The Church of England and in common with her the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States have not expressly defined any rule on the subject of fasting but while they inherit and hold in high respect the venerable customs holy times and pious practices of the Catholic or Universal Church of Antiquity they aim to carry out the primitive spirit of this holy season in harmony with the individual freedom of the personal Christian conscience. In common with the Greek and Latin branches of the Catholic Church the Anglican Church observes with religious veneration and strictness the season of Lent but lays upon her children no greater rule than this that they observe this sacred season as one of personal humiliation abstinence from pleasure of fasting prayer penitence of alms deeds and charities and as a season for the special cultivation of all the graces and duties of the Christian life

Says the New York Tribune of February 18th. The bill in relation to the election of canvassers and inspectors of election in New York city was warmly debated in the Assembly yesterday by Messrs Kiernan and Hitchman. A Washington dispatch (Feb 15th) to the N Y Times says: The pressure from the West for the creation of additional ports of entry and delivery is very great and there are at least two or three hundred applications petitions and bills now before Congress praying for the creation of more. The Treasury Department, however is indisposed to further increase the number of these ports, and will shortly submit to Congress a communication asking for the abolition of many of the minor ones, on the ground that the importations are too small, and that their continuance entails too heavy an expense on the Government

Salaries of United States Judges

[From the Chicago Republican]

There is a bill pending in the Senate which provides for the increase of the salary of the Chief Justice to $12,000, of each Associate Justice to $10 000 of the Circuit Judges to $6 500, and District Judges to $5 000. This journal has not been slow to advocate economy and retrenchment in every department of the Government service and it will not hesitate to denounce national niggardliness, however aptly it may assume the comely disguise of economy

From the times of the old Hebrews, when it was discovered that "there is that scattereth and yet increaseth, and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty," to the "poor preach, poor pay" of our own Indians, it has proved true that false economy frequently is both dangerous and expensive. This is especially the case with respect to the salaries of our high judicial officers. The name of Justice of the Supreme Court has always been one of honor. Of those who have been numbered among the members of the Court, there have been many whose learning, dignity, and integrity have been the just pride of their countrymen, and who have excited the admiration and the envy of the most distinguished foreign jurists. With very few exceptions, the United States has been well served upon the Supreme bench. The country has made a very scant return for these services. The judges of its courts are paid less than judges of similar courts in any country in the world, while their duties and responsibilities are vastly greater. The judges of the courts of England receive hundreds of gold sovereigns where our justices receive hundreds of paper dollars, and the security, position, dignity, and honor of the former are not less. The salary for a similar position in England would scarcely be less than one hundred thousand dollars. It is characteristic of, and a compliment to the peculiar nature of this Republic, that it can find such eminent men to do its service for such poor pay. At present the Chief Justice receives $6,500, the Associate Justices $6 000 each, and the District Judges $3,000 each. A gentleman who has taken pains to investigate this subject found last winter in Washington the daughters of a late Chief Justice eking a very scanty and precarious livelihood by copying documents in one of the public offices at eight cents per one hundred words. The father of these ladies gave up a very lucrative practice to serve his country as Chief Justice, and after remaining upon the bench more than twenty years, died, leaving the family nearly destitute, and his habits were temperate and his mode of life the most simple. Another Justice of the same Court is at present paying his entire salary for the board and lodging of himself and wife and they have one parlor and one bed room the bed room serving as an office and consultation room, and the bed in the day time as the receptacle of the Judge's papers. The Judge from California relinquished a practice of forty thousand dollars a year for a position on the Supreme bench and six thousand dollars while his fees were in gold his salary is in paper. It is known that another member resigned his position because he was unable to support his family on the salary, and unlike some of the Judges he had not a princely private income. The truth is no lawyer of such distinguished abilities as entitle him to such a position can accept the place without he has a fortune of his own. Two of the present Justices are immensely wealthy men and as able as they are wealthy but such a combination is a very rare exception. It is much oftener the case that lawyers who devote themselves to attaining eminence in their profession have no time for making a fortune and are consequently practically ineligible to the Supreme bench. The President's choice is now limited to the very few lawyers who are independently wealthy. Or if a man in moderate circumstances with a family accepts the office he does it with the fullest knowledge that he is condemning himself to a life of very arduous toil with wages so scant that his family, if they occupy the social position which the country expects and demands will continually be in want and that upon his death the only heritage he may leave his children is poverty. Necessity compels eminent lawyers to be disciples of the bread and butter philosophy as well as other men and with the assurance of a successful career at the bar they will and must decide for for one and a lucrative career rather than for judicial honors and poverty. Lawyers who have no property ought not to be ineligible to the Supreme bench. At present they are ineligible by reason of a property qualification of the most odious nature. Such a judicial aristocracy is contrary to the spirit of our institutions is essentially un republican. It may not always happen that our wealthy lawyers are such men as would honor the country in such a position—indeed it is quite unlikely that such will be the case and the result will be that the Court which has been considered one of the most essential features of our governmental system the bulwark of our national safety will degenerate into an oligarchy of wealthy mediocrity. The Supreme Court has never we believe been charged with corruption but this is not because its members are not peculiarly liable to temptation. Sitting as a court of last resort intrusted with the final decision in cases involving millions contested by persons who would not hesitate to use any means which would secure a decision in their favor it is quite possible that at some time some human virtue may fail especially if pressed by penury. The country cannot afford to incur the risk of such danger. Up to this time most of the Supreme Court Justices have been men of eminent ability but if these scant salaries are not increased it will be difficult to obtain men fitted for the position. The road to wealth comfort independence and to position scarcely less eminent is by practice at the bar. That road most men will choose to follow. And for that pay the country will have as it deserves cheap justice. The meaning of the bill for the increase of salaries is practically this—shall we continue to have men of great ability as Judges of the United States Courts or not? The proposed increase is not to generous. Twelve thousand dollars a year is not more than enough for the support of a family in a social position not inferior to that of the President of the United States. It is besides not less the duty of a man to provide for the future of those who are dependent upon him because he is Chief Justice. There is reason to believe that the people will not object to such an increase of salaries. The aggregate amount is trifling

CURIOUS GEOLOGICAL FORMATIONS.—It is stated by one of our foreign exchanges that near the city of Medina, in Italy, and about four miles around it, wherever the earth is dug, when the workmen arrive at a depth of sixty-three feet they come to a bed of chalk, which they bore, with an augur, five feet deep. They then withdraw from the pit before the augur is removed, upon its extraction the water bursts up through the aperture with great violence and quickly fills the newly made well, which continues full, and is affected by neither rains nor drouth. But what is more remarkable in this operation is the layers of earth as we descend. At the deeph of fourteen feet are found the ruins of an ancient city, paved streets, houses, doors, and different pieces of mason work. Under this is found a soft, oozy earth, made up of vegetables; and, at twenty-six feet, large trees entire, such as walnut trees, with the walnuts still stuck to the stem, and the leaves and branches in a perfect state of preservation. At twenty-eight feet deep a soft chalk is found, mixed with a vast quantity of shells, and the bed is eleven feet thick. Under this, vegetables are found again.

It is stated that no fewer than 27,000 penny song books are sold every day throughout France. What is still more surprising is the immense number of persons engaged in the trade. It is the custom for a man of a family of beggars to procure the song books and tramp the whole country round singing the songs in them. This attracts attention, and then they sell the little books. The singers in France number about 600,000. They may be divided into three great orders: those at fixed posts, the tramps who wander about and sing in the streets, and those who frequent the low eating houses.

TRADE IN FLOWERS FOR PERFUMERY.—A recent French authority states that to obtain one kilogramme of oil of roses, from 10,000 to 30,000 kilogrammes of roses petals are required; for the same amount of the oil of lavender, 250 kilogrammes of the flowers; of oil of geranium, 2,000 kilogrammes of the leaves; and so on. The trade in some of these perfumes is enormous, as may be inferred from the fact that the neighborhood of Nice alone produces annually $40,000 worth of a single flower, the sweet-smelling Nissa violet.

ORLEANISTS.—The Duke de Persigny, Napoleon's old confidential adviser, but who enjoys now but little consideration at court and in leading political circles, thinks that, in investing so many prominent Orleanists with official functions, Napoleon the Third signed the death warrant of the Second Empire. He said the other day that all the leading Prefects, Judges, etc., now were more anxious to prove that in times gone by they were good and loyal Orleanists than Bonapartists.

Count Bismarck is said to be highly elated at the turn affairs have recently taken in France.

An English journalist paid $40 for a copy of the Marseillaise on the day of its seizure.

General Ames says that Mississippi was so radical that Jeff. Davis couldn't stay in it.

The positive advantage of the GROVER & BAKER over all other Sewing Machines, will be apparent to all who examine the relative merits of each. WM CURRIER & Co., Agents.

All tastes and circumstances suited in the purchase of a GROVER & BAKER Sewing Machine, from the plain substantial machine of the workshop to the elegant and ornamental for the boudoir.

SOMETHING GOOD—Do you love oysters—we mean nice fresh ones, just from the coast! Then by all means call at the Union Fish Market, where you can have them sent to you every day just as you want them, for a surprisingly low price. Also, all kinds of fish in their season. Remember the place—Washington street, near Second.

RAILROAD MATTERS are very likely to be lively this spring. The East Side Company will engage a large force of men to complete their road to Albany, and the West Side Company will, very probably, build a portion of their road in order to obtain a land grant to facilitate the building of their line to McMinnville. Kohn & Fishel are keeping up with railroad times. Their stock of spring goods coming across the continent by rail will be the largest and finest stock of Clothing ever imported to this State. Their stock in store now is offered very low to make room for large arrivals. They are manufacturing the neatest Boys' Suits and always have on hand a large stock of the same which are offered at lowest figures.

REMOVAL.—J. W. Campbell has removed his new Patent Bed Bottom manufactory to Messrs. Jonson & Rothlefson's Cabinet and Carpenter shop, southeast corner of Morrison and Fourth streets. Although but recently introduced, the Minnesota Bed Bottom is fast coming into general use and is giving general satisfaction. Come and see it. j20d1m

The Living Machine.

Injure the main spring of a watch and every portion of the works becomes disordered. The human stomach is to the human system what that elastic piece of metal is to a chronometer. It influences the action of the other organs, and controls, to a certain extent, the whole living machine. The comparison may be carried further: for as the weakness or other imperfections of the main spring is indicated on the face of the timepiece, so also is the weakness or other disorder of the stomach betrayed by the face of the invalid. The complexion is sallow or faded, the eyes are deficient in luster and intelligence, and there is a worn, anxious expression in the whole countenance which tell as plainly as written words could do, that the great nourishing organ whose office it is to minister to the wants of the body, and to sustain and renew all its parts, is not performing its duty. It requires renovating and regulating, and to accomplish this end Hostetter's Stomach Bitters may be truly said to be the one thing needful. The broken main spring of a watch may be replaced by a new one, but the stomach can only be repaired and strengthened, and this is one of the objects of the famous vegetable restorative which for eighteen years has been waging a successful contest with dyspepsia in all climates. As a specific for indigestion it stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopoeia have been exhausted, without, at best, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome and palatable, yet powerful stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland, as well as upon the stomach and bowels, the Bitters act with singular distinctness, regulating and re-invigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

nes Gordon Bennett's Announcement in the Herald' of his Marriage

[From the N Y Hera'l June 1 1840]

THE LEADER OF THE HERALD [illegible] AT LAST [illegible] TO BE MARRIED—NEW MOVEMENT IN CIVILIZATION

I am going to be married in a few days The [illegible] is so beautiful times are getting [illegible] the prospects of political and moral re[illegible] so auspicious that I cannot resist the [illegible] instinct of honest nature any longer I am going to be married to one of the most splendid women in intellect, in heart in soul in property in person in manner that I have yet seen in the course of my interesting pilgrimage through human life

I cannot stop in my career I must fulfil that awful destiny which the Almighty Father has written against the wall of Heaven I must give the world a pattern of happy wedded life with all the charities that spring from a nuptial love In a few days I shall be married according to the holy rites of the most holy Christian Church, to one of the most remarkable, accomplished and beautiful young women of the age She possesses a fortune I sought and found a fortune a large fortune She has no Stonington shares of Manhattan stock but in purity and uprightness she is worth half a million of pure coin Can any swindling bank show as much? In good sense and elegance another half a million in soul, mind and beauty, millions on millions, equal to the whole specie of all the rotten banks in the world Happily, the patronage of the public to the Herald is nearly $25,000 per annum almost equal to a President's salary, But property in the world's goods was never my object. Fame, public good, usefulness in my day and generation, the progress of true industry—these have been my dreams by night, and my desires by day

In the new and holy condition into which I am about to enter, with the same reverential feelings as I would heaven itself, I anticipate some signal change in my feelings, in my views, in my purposes, in my pursuits What they may be I know not time alone can tell My ardent desire has been through life to reach the highest order of human excellence, by the shortest possible cut Associated, night and day, in sickness and in health, in war and in peace with a woman of the highest order of excellence, must produce some curious results in my heart and feelings, and these results the future will develop in due time in the columns of the Herald.

Meantime, I return my heartfelt thanks for the enthusiastic patronage of the public, both of Europe and America The holy estate of wedlock will only increase my desire to be still more useful. God Almighty bless you all. JAMES GORDON BENNETT

In the postscript to this announcement, Bennett gives notice that he shall have no time to waste upon the editors who attacked him, "until after marriage and the honeymoon."

On the 6th of June, 1840, the marriage was announced at the head of the editorial columns of the Herald. as follows.

MARRIED.

On Saturday afternoon, the 6th instant, by the Rev Dr. Bowers, at St Peter's Catholic Church, in Barclay street, James Gordon Bennett, the proprietor and editor of the New York Herald, to Henrietta Anges Crean What may be the effect of this event on the great newspaper contest now waging in New York time alone can show.

A New Projectile

A RANGE OF EIGHT OR TEN MILES EXPECTED—A CHARGED CONICAL SHOT TO BE DISCHARGED WHILE IN FLIGHT.

FORTRESS MONROE, Feb. 9.—Mr. J. W. Hill, of Jefferson, Williams Co. Iowa, has invented a double-shotted projectile, by which he claims a shot can be thrown a distance of eight or ten miles Messrs. Hill and Roberts arrived here on Monday, with permission from Washington to make experiments The shot is conical, with a bore inside and a time fuse at the side. In fact, it is a small cannon itself. An eight-inch shot fired to-day weighed 200 pounds before being loaded. The inner cavity or bore was three and a half inches, and extended some eight inches. Into this cavity was placed a half pound of powder, some tow was then inserted, and then a twelve and a half pound shot. The nozzle is stopped up by a brass plug in two pieces. The double shot is then placed in a cannon and discharged. The fuses are from five to ten seconds. At the end of that time the fuse ignites the powder and discharges the twelve-pound shot. The inventor claims that the velocity of the smaller shot is greater than was the large one, but that is a point to be determined. The experiments were commenced on Monday, but in consequence of the plug in the end of the shot not being screwed in, the plug and the ball both fell out after traveling about one mile. For to-day's experiment, however, the plugs were made to screw into the shot, and the result was satisfactory. The fuse to the eight-inch shot was a ten second fuse, and at the end of that time the twelve and a half pound shot was discharged and the eight-inch shot kept on its way until its force was expended. The explosion does not burst the shot but drives out the plug, as there is no vacuum between the shot and the nozzle. This projectile has now been tested for the first time and is pronounced a success The experiments were made by Colonel T. G Baylor, commanding the arsenal at this post, and a full report will be forwarded to the Chief of Ordnance. The principle on which this improvement is made is regarded as a good one Our fifteen-inch guns throw a solid shot at least five miles; load one of these guns with a double-shotted projectile, with a fuse arranged to discharge the small shot when the cannon ball has reached its highest elevation A fifteen-inch shot would take a twenty or twenty-four pound shot without danger of bursting, and it is claimed that it would go further from this elevation than it would from the ground. The large shot would, of course, be fired at an object, while the small one would be sent on to do what execution it could, and in firing at a line of troops would be very effective The small shot is made with a sabot for the rifle in the large shot, and is large enough to fill up the space between the powder and the plug, which is screwed in, but only just enough to keep it from being shaken out, Messrs. Hill and Roberts are entirely satisfied with the success of their experiments, and believe they can fire a shot almost any distance

EVER TRUE.—The Painesville (Ohio) Enterprise tells the following

The numerous friends of Miss Rebecca Jones, daughter of Thomas Jones, who resided in this vicinity twenty years ago will learn with pleasure that she is at last happily married to the man of her choice, after waiting many years for him In 1849 as is known by many of our older readers, she was betrothed to E. D Pierce, an officer who served in our volunteer army during the Mexican war Mr Pierce, however, was smitten with the gold fever that prevailed so extensively at that time, and went to California to make his fortune He led a party across the plains, and afterward was at the head of several exploring expeditions to the mining regions of the Pacific and Rocky Mountain States, acquiring an intimate and extensive knowledge of that section Fortune was changeful, but finally he conquered all difficulties and became wealthy Several times he started to the States to marry his affianced, but something always occurred to prevent his coming Still "the girl he left behind him" remained true through all the passing years, and they were married in Indiana last November A few days since they made a brief visit to this place, reviving old friendships and making new ones They start for California in February, intending to make their home at Oakland, a beautiful town on the Bay of San Francisco, ten miles from that city

Thibet, in Central Asia, is the most elevated inhabited country on the globe It consists of extensive table lands surrounded by lofty mountain chains, the lowest portions of which are 10 000 feet above the level of the sea The people of Thibet belong to the same family as the Chinese they are agile, generous and brave and the most singular feature of their social is polyandry, or a plurality of husbands In this respect they are the exact opposite of the Mormons sometimes one woman is the wife of all the brothers in the family

Eastern Markets.

[BY MAIL]

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—The chief feature in financial circles, to-day, was the publication of private telegrams from Washington with regard to the action of Congress on Finance Prominent among these was one to the effect that all measures looking to the funding of the debt would be abandoned for this year This news gave general satisfaction, as the funding bill now before Congress is looked upon with general disfavor. Other telegrams relating to a proposed reduction in tariff and internal revenue to the extent of $50,000,000, were received with much disfavor

The rise and activity in Government bonds in Europe were also the subject of much comment German bankers generally telegraphed to Europe last night that the funding bill would probably fail, which, in connection with the general reduction of interest in Continental cities, caused a rise in the National credit The bankers generally look for further improvement in Europe when it is generally known that the funding bill is abandoned for this year
